Effective October 1, 2013, the Substitute Check Policy Disclosure, the Consumer Electronic Funds Transfer Disclosure Statement and the Funds Availability Policy have been updated and incorporated into the Deposit Accounts Terms and Conditions.

Also effective October 1, 2013, changes have been made to the Deposit Accounts Terms and Conditions including but not limited to the Payment Order of Items. The posting order we will use for paying your Items that are presented for payment on each Business Day is as follows:

Payment Order of Items - The order in which Items are paid (in other words, withdrawn from your Account) is known as the "posting order." The posting order is important in those cases where there is not sufficient money in your Account to pay all of the Items that are presented for payment on a given Business Day. The posting order will determine which Items will be paid, which Items may be returned for insufficient funds, and which Items may create an overdraft if FirstMerit, in its sole discretion, chooses to pay the Item despite there being insufficient funds in your Account. There are separate fees that may be charged for returning an Item for insufficient funds and for creating an overdraft. The posting order we will use for paying your Items that are presented for payment on each Business Day is as follows:

1) We will post debit card transactions (this includes reducing your balance by the dollar amount of any holds that we may have placed on your Account for debit card transactions for which we have received notice, but which have not yet been presented for payment; see "Determining Your Account Balance" on page 8) and automated teller machine (ATM) transactions in the order that we received notice of them.

2) Next we will pay teller cashed checks, debit memos, wire transfers, debits resulting from transfers between FirstMerit accounts and any transactions completed in the Branch, from the largest dollar amount to the smallest dollar amount.
